Paul is interested in graphic design and illustration. Since the program Mike and Paul were hired under is a continuing one, we hope to have them on our staff for several years.

CHILDREN'S WEEK AT THE MUSEUM 1977

Due to the thunderous response to "Children's Week at the Museum" last year we have decided to make it an annual event. Over 600 youngsters visited the Museum last year, during this one week program. We will need at least 20 volunteers to work one six hour shift (four volunteers for each of the five days). Please help the Museum make 1977 a big year for the children. Call the Museum now to get in on the action (689-9178). Mark December 12 through December 16 on your calendar.

HISTORICAL VILLAGE TAKES A GIANT STEP FORWARD

Members of the Historical Commission have been planning and preparing for the new additions to the Historic Green. Construction on the 19th century Print Shop has at last reached a stage of near completion. Finish carpentry work is currently being done by the City's Building Department. An opening date has not yet been set, however, we are hoping to open the shop for tours sometime in November, 1977. The 1885 Chandler and Price printing press is currently undergoing minor restoration repairs and should be completed by October 1. Mr. Richard Miller, donor of the press and printing equipment, has already volunteered his services in preparing the final setup after the equipment has been moved into the new building.

Volunteers are needed to operate the printing press and will be thoroughly trained before the shop is opened to the public. All interested and knowledgeable volunteers are urged to contact the Museum office by October 15. Training will take place after this date.

New brick walkways have been added to the village this summer. The sidewalks run from the parking area to the previously existing walk at the Caswell House, and on to the Print Shop. More walkways will be added as new structures are added to the site.

The Wagon Shop plans are once again under way with an arrival date projected for early this Fall. The City's Building Dept. has offered to move this structure which is currently standing on the site at Livernois and Square Lake Roads. Restoration work will be constructed by A.M.E., a Troy based Architectural-Contracting firm.

A plan to construct a Gazebo, at the village site, is currently being researched and drawn. No construction date has been set, but the Historical Commission is hoping to see the structure underway this Fall. This will certainly add a flavorful touch to the rapidly growing Museum and Historic Village.

The basic plan is to develop a Gazebo with the gingerbread style of the Victorian Age.

PIONEER ROOM "FACE LIFT" NEARS COMPLETION

A new exhibit of Early Pioneer artifacts has been added to the West Wing "Pioneer Room" portion of the Museum. The permanent display is the result of extensive research and searching of rare collections by members of the Museum Guild and Historical Commission. An exciting and educational new look has taken over the room which was originally designed to house historical artifacts over 50 years ago.

New paint and window treatment copied from early pioneer homes will be added to the Pioneer Room this Fall to complete the display.

MUSEUM STAFF NEWS

The Museum was able to hire three new people with Federal funds made available to the City and County by the Comprehensive Education and Training Act (C.E.T.A.) Titles III and VI. From August 15, 1977 through August 15, 1978, Muriel Gordon will work on various "special projects" for the Museum. Muriel, a Troy resident has been an active member of the Museum Guild and her interest in genealogy has vigorously tracing her roots. Muriel and Dorothy Scott will present a three-part workshop on genealogy at the Troy Public Library at 7:00 P.M. the first three Monday evenings in October. Mark your calendar now and call the Library at 689-5665 to register or to get more information.

Two Oakland University students, Michael Bommarito and Paul Collins, will assist Tom Caspary in setting up the Print Shop, display work, and numerous other projects. Mike, a Rochester resident, has completed two years at O.C.C. and is now a junior at Oakland university pursuing a degree in political science. Mike's future plans are to seek a law degree. Paul, a Troy resident, graduated from Troy High and is now a freshman at Oakland pursuing a fine arts degree.
